

Cellular telephone use should be banned on all aircraft while in flight unless it is a dire emergency. It is a safety issue which would cause too much distraction, and also rude and inconsiderate to all passengers. It is enough that we have to sit cramped together like pigeons during long flights listening to screaming babies and drunk people getting loud, but can you imagine everyone talking on a cell phone? Talk about "air rage"!